

Create A Muster Point

Choose a safe location outside your home that is a safe distance the building - rule of thumb: 150 to 200 yards (137 to 183 meters). The larger the building, the further away you need to go.

Choose a clearly defined place with a landmark such a specific mailbox, tree, neighbor's stoop (with permission). The bigger the better, in case of poor visibility due to smoke.

Talk about it, do a walk through - "If the fire alarm goes off, this is where we meet" Twice a year practice low crawling (under the smoke), and meeting at the muster point.

Create and hang a visual reminder in a central location in your home. Mark the muster point clearly.
